Writing Research Papers Across the Curriculum 2010 losing it all to sprawl is the poignant chronicle of award winning nature writer bill belleville and how he came to understand and love his historic cracker farmhouse and relic neighborhood in central florida even as it was all wiped out from under him belleville s narrative is eloquent informed and impassioned a saga in which tractors and backhoes trample through the woods next to his home in order to build the backbone of florida sprawl the mall as heavy machinery encircles belleville and his community the noise growing louder and closer displacing everything belleville has called home for the past fifteen years he tells a story that is much older 10 000 years older the story stretches back to the timucua and the mayaca living in harmony with florida s environment the conquistadors who expected much from but also feared this land of flowers the turn of the century tourists modernizing and climatizing the state the original cracker families who lived in belleville s farmhouse in stark contrast to this millennia long transformation is the whiplash of unbridled growth and development that threatens the nearby wilderness of the wekiva river system consuming belleville s home and ultimately his very sense of place in florida one of the nation s fastest growing states and where local and state governments encourage growth balancing use with preservation is an uphill battle sprawl spreads into the countryside consuming not just natural lands but old florida neighborhoods and their unique history in losing it all to sprawl belleville accounts for the impacts social political natural personal that a community in the crosshairs of unsustainable growth ultimately must bear but he also offers floridians and anyone facing the blight of urban confusion the hope that can be found in the rediscovery and appreciation of the natural landscape

APA Manual 7th Edition Simplified for Easy Citation 2001 according to author mike schmoker there is a yawning gap between the most well known essential practices and the reality of most classrooms this gap persists despite the hard often heroic work done by many teachers and administrators schmoker believes that teachers and administrators may know what the best practices are but they aren't using them or reinforcing them consistently he asserts that our schools are protected by a buffer a protective barrier that prevents scrutiny of instruction by outsiders the buffer exists within the school as well teachers often know only what is going on in their classrooms and they may be completely in the dark about what other teachers in the school are doing even principals says schmoker don't have a clear view of the daily practices of teaching and learning in their schools schmoker suggests that we need to get beyond this buffer to confront the truth about what is happening in classrooms and to allow teachers to learn from each other and to be supervised properly he outlines a plan that focuses on the importance of consistent curriculum authentic literacy education and professional learning communities for teachers what will students get out of this new approach learning for life schmoker argues passionately that students become learners for life when they have more opportunities to engage in strategic reading writing with explicit guidance and argument and discussion through strong teamwork true leadership and authentic learning schools and their students can reach new heights results now is a rally cry for educators to focus on what counts if they do schmoker promises the entire school community can count on unprecedented achievements

Post-polio Syndrome 2017-06-13 in the 21st century digital tools enable information to be generated faster and in greater profusion than ever before to the point where its extent and value are literally beyond imagining such quantities can only be meaningfully addressed using more digital tools and thus our relationship to information is fundamentally changed this situation presents a particular challenge to processes of learning and teaching and demands a response from both information professionals and educators enabling education in a digital environment means not only changing the form in which learning opportunities are offered but also enabling students to survive and prosper in digitally based learning environments this collection brings together a global community of educators educational researchers librarians and IT strategists to consider how learners need to be equipped in an educational environment that is increasingly suffused with digital technology traditional notions of literacy need to be challenged and new literacies including information literacy and IT literacy need to be considered as foundation elements for digitally involved learners leading international experts from the USA Canada Australia New Zealand South Africa Mexico and throughout Europe contribute to the debate and Hannelore Rader librarian and dean of the University Libraries University of Louisville Kentucky provides the foreword the book is in two parts in part 1 literacies in the digital age the contributors analyse how digital technologies have enabled transformative change in the ways in which learning can be constructed and discuss the nature of the new literacies that have emerged in this new virtual and e learning environment in part 2 enabling and supporting digital literacies the contributors go on to consider the ways in which digital literacies can be made available to learners and how these literacies are being relocated in a more student centred environment within the broader perspective of learning readership this book takes the issues raised in the successful information and IT literacy also co-edited by Allan Martin into a broader context it is essential reading for all information professionals and educators involved in developing strategies and practices for learning in a digital age
